Early tooth loss in Brazil

Autor(res)

Vivian Louise Soares De Oliveira
Ana Carolina Arruda Rodrigues Macedo

Categoria do Trabalho

Trabalho Acadêmico

Instituição

CENTRO UNIVERSITÁRIO ANHANGUERA

Resumo

In line with the Brazilian Federative Constitution promulgated in 1988, it provides every citizen with access to physical integrity, access to information and oral health. In Brazil, however, tooth loss consists of the premature loss of permanent teeth at any stage of life. It is a problem in the reality of many Brazilians, a fact that needs to be analyzed with great caution. In this sense, it is worth analyzing the main causes and consequences of this problem.

This literature review was based on articles found in SciELO, whose search words were: Dentistry, Tooth Loss, Tooth, Oral Health in Brazil.

As a cause of tooth loss, the lack of knowledge of ways to maintain teeth was explained. Coping with oral health problems is common for subjects who have economic limitations. This is due to the difficulties that a part of Brazilian society faces in their daily lives, due to their socioeconomic reality that directly interferes in their lives. The precarious living conditions and the difficult access to quality care are experiences that leave their mark , your poverty tattoo .

I Seminário de Pensamento Científico na Odontologia

8 de novembro de 2023

9h às 12h

FACULDADE ANHANGUERA BETIM